Director's Note:

A funny thought occurred to me recently. My dear friend, Caitlin Widner, drama teacher at South Carroll HS, always chooses shows according to some theme. Well, I never have. My brain isn't organized enough.

But...apparently... I actually did.

Alice, like Cady in Mean Girls, falls down a rabbit hole where she encounters every manner of friend and foe, gets bullied by Queens, Mock Turtles, and Mad Hatters, and at the end of a very long day must answer a question from the beginning of Act 1. "WHO ARE YOU?" the Caterpillar asks Alice shortly after she arrives. By the play's end, after Alice wrestles the Red Queen into a kitten, she can heave a deep sigh and hopefully chart a new course that's more about authenticity and less about appearance.

As an English teacher, I revel at the idea of crafting a meaty compare/contrast essay about Alice and Cady. Suffice it to say, they both clearly suffer bullies and come out on the other side stronger.

As to our show, what a joy. We graduated TWENTY-FOUR seniors after Les Mis. So, Saint Genesius graced us with a freshman class to dance jigs around. Our cast and crew of sixty plus high schoolers, many of them freshmen and sophomores, has embraced the whimsy and nonsensical challenge of Alice in Wonderland. My two assistant directors, Helena and Emma, are a dream team. River, our stage manager, Dolly, our props manager, Meredith and Mackenzie, our tech managers, Allie our A Team manager, our whole costume team—are ALL, I mean EVERY ONE, about the work, about the show, about the good of all. I'm blessed. Tired? Of course. Still, so blessed.

And special thanks to Heidi Eiwen, Bill Harrington and John Bradford. No way could we have pulled a single piece of this off without you.

~ R.G.

Assistant Directors' Notes:

When I joined Stage Crew my freshman year, I certainly did not intend to be here today, assistant directing our fall play. My mom told me I needed an "activity" for high school, so I grudgingly signed up, forced by mostly my parents, but also Ms. Eiwen. But the weird thing? I started to get sucked in. By the spring, I was in the musical, then 2 more shows and I was the Dance

Captain. And as much as I may have said I was going to, I never quit. 3 more shows happened, which led me to choreographing Les Mis. Yeah, yeah, go ahead and say what we're all thinking- I officially got sucked in. This place has a funny way of doing that.

I have laughed and cried, made friends and lost friends, and been stressed enough for every single person reading this right now. Whether I wanted it to or not, this place became my second home (that sometimes felt like I spent more time at than more than my actual home) and these people became my family.

As for this cast and crew of Alice in Wonderland, I am so extremely proud and grateful. I'm not going to lie; I had a mini panic attack when I saw the number of freshmen that came to auditions. And it is absolutely crazy that they are the same people about to perform for you today. I have watched each of them break out of their shell and come alive on stage, which was truly an amazing experience.

We all have worked so incredibly hard, and I can't thank each and every person who helped us in this journey enough! Thank you to Mrs. Gore, Ms. Eiwien, and Helena for keeping me sane, as well as my parents, friends, and boyfriend that put up with my busy schedule and constant chaos.

This has been such an insane, stressful, but rewarding experience and I hope this show gives you a glimpse of the dedication and effort we all have put in since September. Thank you so much for coming and enjoy the show!

~Emma Chaney, AD

First of all, thank you to everyone for your hard work and dedication over the past few months. It's truly gratifying to see all of our efforts pay off and turn into a beautiful production. The show is really wonderful, everyone should be proud of themselves!

Thank you, Emma and Mrs. Gore, for being my partners! I love working with you both.

Thanks again everyone!

~Helena Cruickshank, AD
